

Advanced Infrastructure

Reliability. Resilience. Availability. Consistency. In today's complex IT environment, businesses are being asked to do more with less. Every industry is changing rapidly and new technologies are emerging at a record pace. How does a company maintain its competitive edge while optimizing its IT assets?

Micro Strategies Inc.'s Advanced Infrastructure team has the experience, knowledge and depth of skills to support you in the achievement of your IT goals. As a Tier 1 IBM Business Partner, we sell and support all of IBM's storage products, as well as IBM's pSeries, xSeries and iSeries servers. The following are some of the technologies our Advanced Infrastructure team can help your company employ:

Virtualization

If you are looking to reduce the complexity and cost of managing your server or storage infrastructure via virtualization, we have the know-how and resources to get you there.

Optimization

Through education, and a careful and thoughtful review of your unique environment, we can help you realize the most efficient and productive use of your IT assets, including your valuable technical professionals.

Business Continuity

Our team focuses on the most appropriate availability options for your specific business - from the right form of backup and recovery to full replication with immediate failover of your systems and data.

Systems Management

Our systems management consultants can help you improve system efficiency and availability, develop "Best Practices" for your administrative teams, and create a more resilient IT environment - providing faster response and increased satisfaction for your users.

Integration

As technology becomes more complex, its integration becomes more important to your organization. Micro Strategies can ensure that your servers, storage, network and software work in concert with one another.

How Micro Strategies' Products and Services Benefit You

An IT environment that utilizes IBM's hardware and software is efficient and flexible. IBM products allow your organization to be more agile and to save money. Most importantly, these products allow your IT staff to react quickly to changes in your business, promoting faster speed to market of new products and services. When your infrastructure is integrated effectively, management of your systems becomes more streamlined, resulting in a lower overall cost of ownership and greater systems availability.

Our highly skilled staff has the expertise to architect unique, technical solutions and demonstrate, test and benchmark those integrated solutions in our state-of-the-art Business Partner Innovation Center (BPIC). We are also available to assist you with financial justification and return on investment business cases.
